Judge delays decision on Rippetoe venue move

Circuit Court Judge Koets Vlahos late Wednesday deferred ruling on whether to grant a change of venue in the false pretense trial of R. D. (Bob) Rippetoe in connection with Gulfview Elementary school repairs.

Rippetoe's attorneys earlier Wednesday asked the court to move location of the trial from Hancock County.

Vlahos stated he will wait to rule on the motion until after he hears responses of prospective jurors during selection interviews by both state and defense attorneys.

Trial date in the case has not been set.

Rippetoe was indicted by a Hancock County Grand Jury in November, 1980 for false pretense in connection with Hancock County School Board emergency repair work at Gulfview Elementary School after a tornado struck the building in April of that year.

Wednesday, Rippetoe's attorney, John C. Johnson, introduced some 49 newspaper articles published between June of 1980 and June of 1981 in The Daily Herald and The Sea Coast Echo as evidence supporting his motion that the trial be conducted outside Hancock County.

A May 27, 1981 article from the Clarion Ledger and a June 7, 1981 article from the Sunday Sun Herald were also introduced as separate evidence.

In addition, Johnson called three Hancock County residents to the stand who testified that his client could not receive a fair trial in Hancock County. Glen Cannon, assistant district attorney handling the state's case, failed to supply any witnesses which might have countered testimony from those defense witnesses.

When asked why he did not have any available witnesses, Cannon replied, "No comment," and then added, "You will have to talk to Albert, (Albert Necaise District Attorney)

Necaise Wednesday afternoon stated he is involved in a murder case in Harrison County and was not even aware that pre-trial motions were set for a hearing Wednesday.

"I wish we did have some witnesses," Necaise said.

"Glen called me and told me the judge had given 10 minutes to come up with witnesses. He said he went to the sheriff's department but couldn't find anybody willing to testify."

Cannon asked Vlahos for additional time during the pre-trial hearing to introduce state witnesses.

Vlahos granted 10 minutes to the prosecution. Cannon left the courtroom only to reappear after the ten minutes with no witnesses.

Cannon objected to the articles being used as evidence to support relocating the trial.

He stated the articles "relate to the entire situation and do not single out Mr. Rippetoe."

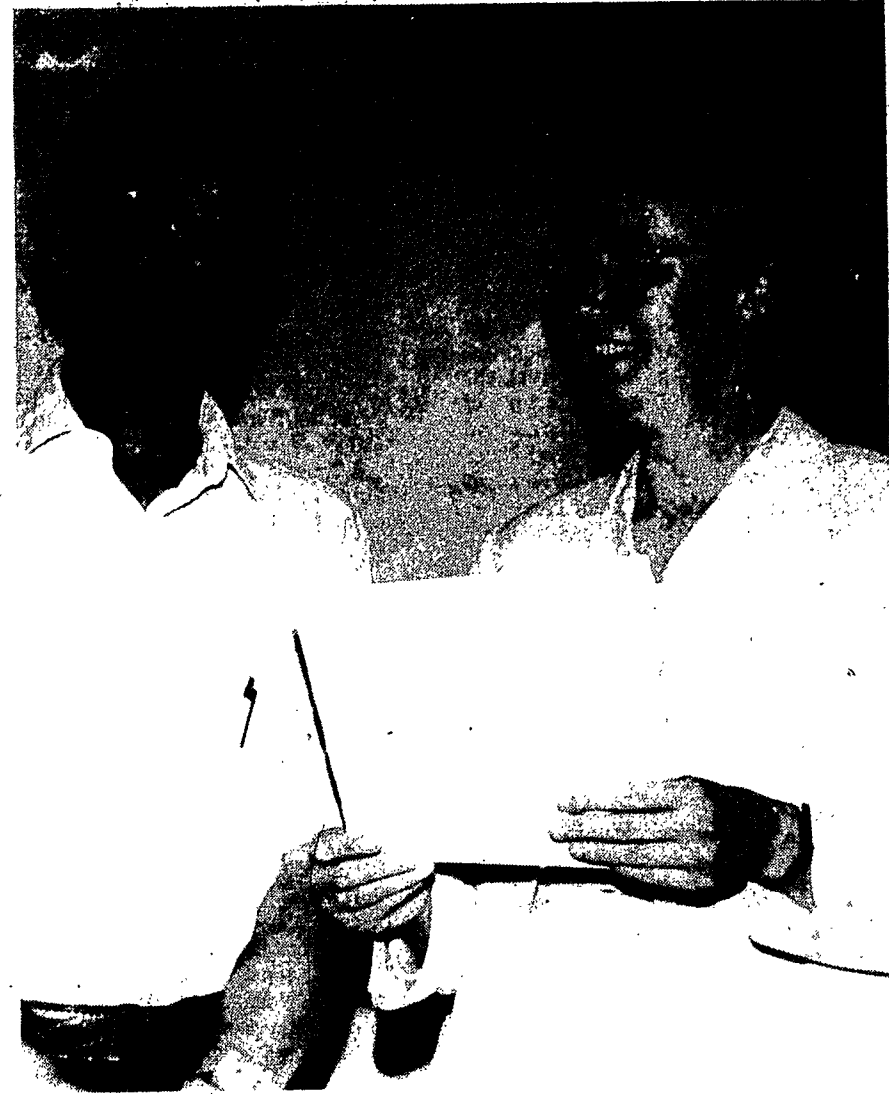

"They relate to what he has been charged with...they show no animosity and 'only report the facts,'" Cannon added.

His protest was overruled by Vlahos and the articles were accepted as evidence.

Johnson also submitted a motion claiming the indictment against Rippetoe was "ambiguous and not in proper form."

Vlahos requested the defense submit more briefs of the demurrer by next Monday.

He also asked for additional briefs by the defense on their motion to quash.

MEETING STATE EXAMINER—Discussing details Friday in Bay St. Louis regarding a State Medical Examiner Commission Southern District are Carl Banderet, Hancock County coroner, and Dr. Faye G. Sprull of Jackson, newly appointed state medical examiner. Banderet Monday will recommend the County Board of Supervisors join the 24-county district which will provide a forensic pathologist 24-hours a day to assist law enforcement officials in investigations. State property description errors snag Bambini trial

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Errors found in a State of Mississippi property description prompted postponement of the Cinque Bambini Partnership trial until the end of August.

Chancellor William L. Stewart, of Division One—Eighth Chancery Court District of Mississippi, decided to delay trial completion until Aug. 28 and 31, due to his growing case backlog and scheduled vacation.

The trial will be continued at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis. The Chancery Court action was originally moved to Harrison County's Gulfport Courthouse due to an air conditioning failure here.

Attorneys on both sides speculated the trial, which was beginning its fourth week Friday and Monday, that afternoon a Bambini engineer revealed in rebuttal testimony some state survey points do not accurately correspond with a legal property boundary description.

The trial may determine the location of a mean high water mark indicating state and private ownership. However, Stewart has indicated in several rulings he has allowed a free flow of information to provide adequate testimony for a State Supreme Court

Partial lunar eclipse awaited Thursday night

A partial eclipse of the moon will be visible over the entire United States tonight (July 16) and Friday morning (July 17), according to the Institute for Astronomical Research in Baton Rouge.

A lunar eclipse occurs when the full moon moves into the shadow of the earth.

Unlike a solar eclipse, which can be seen only from a small portion of the earth, a lunar eclipse is visible anywhere the moon is above the horizon.

On Thursday, the moon will begin entering the "umbra," the dark central portion of the earth's shadow, at 10:25 p.m.

Then the earth's shadow will gradually "bite out" more and more of the moon's surface, until 55 percent of it is covered at 11:47 p.m., the time of maximum eclipse.

The umbral shadow will leave the moon's surface at 1:09 a.m.

Lunar eclipses are not uncommon —

a given area will experience about one each year. This is because the earth's shadow is several times the size of the moon, thus it is easy for the moon to intersect it.

Binoculars or small telescopes will allow observers to watch the shadow sweep over the lunar craters and mountains.

A camera with a telephoto lens can be used to take photographs of the eclipse.

A camera with a telephoto lens can be used to take photographs of the eclipse.

The camera should be mounted on a tripod and loaded with relatively fast film such as ASA 400.

As the brightness of the moon will be changing, different exposure times will be necessary; try exposures ranging from 1-25-second to one second at about f-8.

The curved shape of the earth's shadow will be quite noticeable. In fact, Aristotle referenced this curved shadow as one of the earliest proofs that the earth is not flat.

At Monday supervisors' meeting

County coroner to seek medical district status

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Carl Banderet, Hancock County coroner, Monday will ask the County Board of Supervisors to join the newly created Mississippi Medical Examiner Commission's Southern District.

The commission, created by a recent State Legislature act, began operation July 1. Its first district will be headquartered next to the Gulfport Police Department and will begin operation Oct. 1—serving 24 south Mississippi counties.

Organization of Central and Northern Districts is expected after development of the southern district is completed. Dr. Faye G. Sprull, originally of Crystal Springs, was appointed state medical examiner by the commission at a July 7 meeting in Gulfport.

Sprull reported Friday, during a visit to Bay St. Louis, that if Hancock officials vote to join the district the county would contribute the same amount of money budgeted for the coroner.

She also said, Banderet would be trained as a coroner-medical examiner investigator and be paid by the district at no additional cost to the county.

Sprull explained Banderet would still have to face election every four years, but a movement is underway to drop the present coroner's laws to avoid training different people every four years.

The state medical examiner noted that the need and accompanying fees for coroner juries will also be eliminated in the new system.

"We will have a full-time forensic pathologist available at all times seven days per week at our district headquarters in Gulfport whose only duty will be medical examiner cases such as violent, suspicious and sudden unexpected deaths," she explained.

Sprull said prior to the district's formation, autopsies were only available in nearby cities such as New Orleans and the county had to pay for these services individually.

"Now investigations of suspicious deaths can move more smoothly in gathering necessary photographs, fingerprints and X-rays. Test results will also return more quickly to aid local law enforcement officials—especially when a crime suspect is being sought," she stated.

"This brings Mississippi into the modern scientific age in the forensic pathology field. Now even small communities are provided the same scientific resources as large cities," Sprull added.

The medical examiner said the only other southern states with statewide examiner systems are Florida and North Carolina.

"All other southern states have fragmented systems," she added.

"In Mississippi we now have a law to serve the entire state allowing operational control at the county level, but quality control at the state level," Sprull noted.

She said she is now considering three forensic pathologists for the single district-wide position and is contacting local hospital pathologists to establish a network of backup personnel, if needed.

The state medical examiner said the three Mississippi districts were formed based on population, accessibility, roads and resources.

The statewide commission consists of Dog poisonings alarm Waveland neighborhood

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A $250 reward has been offered by the owners of three dogs poisoned in the 500 block of Jeff Davis Avenue in Waveland last Saturday night.

The Ed Ling family rushed three of their dogs to the Waveland Small Animal Hospital around 9:30 p.m. Saturday when they found the animals were in serious pain.

Ling said, "My wife went about 9:30 p.m. to lock the dogs in the barn as we do every night. We have several acres of land and the animals are enclosed in a fence."

Dr. H.W. LeBourgeois, veterinarian, and owner of the Animal Hospital, reported Wednesday that one dog died, one went home on Tuesday and he would probably send the other home late Wednesday.

A neighbor of the Ling's reportedly lost three dogs in recent weeks to an undetermined cause and several others were reportedly being poisoned at the Alpha Trailer Park several months ago. Dr. LeBourgeois suspects the poison strychnine was used on the animals based on neurological signs and symptoms.

The veterinarian stated, "The two dogs recovering from the poison had to be watched constantly day and night. I took them home with me for three nights."

Waveland police have sent samples of the contents pumped from the animals' stomachs to the crime lab in Jackson for analysis.

"Strychnine is a terrible death to animals. It kills within 15 minutes to an hour. Only fast action by the Ling's in getting the animals to my clinic helped in saving two of the dogs. The poison causes the muscles and respiration systems to be paralyzed," Dr. LeBourgeois commented.

The dog which died, the Ling's had for ten years. They acquired it from a dog pound when it was a puppy and it was a family pet.

The suspected poison was mixed in Repair program underway on defective saw

The Power Tool Division of Rockwell International, in cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission, is voluntarily conducting a repair program for approximately 70,000 Rockwell Model 8 Motorized Bench Saws which have a defective switch.

Rockwell urges owners of its Model 8 motorized saws (Catalog No. 31-205), manufactured prior to November, 1980, to discontinue using the saws until the switch has been replaced.

Breakage of a tab within the switch mechanism may result in the saw remaining in an "on" or a "temporary off" position. In the "temporary off" position, the saw can be caused to restart with a slight bump. Five reports of laceration injuries have been received by Rockwell.

Saws with potentially defective switches can be identified by Serial Numbers that fall between LL-100 through P-110 or between 80 A 00000 through 81 C 02615.

This problem does not affect saws manufactured since December, 1980, which have a safety switch with removable toggle. The saws with the new safety switch have a "Type II" designation stamped on the ends of the carton.

Rockwell urges that owners take their Model 8 motorized saws to the nearest Rockwell service center for a switch replacement, free of charge. Rockwell service centers are listed in the Yellow Pages and in the owners manual packaged with each machine.

Rockwell also is making switch retrofit kits available, with easy-to-follow instructions, for those owners who want to replace the switches themselves.

Such kits can be ordered, free of charge, by writing to: Rockwell International Power Tool Division, 400 N. Lexington Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15208, Attention: Customer Services Department.

Rockwell asks that an owner provide the serial number of a saw when requesting a switch retrofit kit. Any questions regarding switch replacements can be directed to, A. L. Larkin, Customer Services Manager at Rockwell's address.

Owners who may need to verify the serial numbers for the saws involved may call CPSC's toll free hotline: 800-638-6326. (In Maryland, call 800-492-6363; and in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, call 800-638-8333.)

Rockwell's repair program for these saws was previously announced to consumers in a Rockwell Safety Notification released in early January.

Clarification

A report in the Sunday issue of 'The Sea Coast Echo' implied Hancock County School District cafeteria employees would receive a pay raise.

The employees' pay will remain the same, but work hours will be reduced 30 minutes daily resulting in a slight hourly wage increase.

You can identify a tender summer squash. Its skin will be glossy instead of dull and the surface will not be hard. Winter squash should have a thick, tough rind.

VA Questions

Q. Can I receive GI Bill education assistance for training for my private pilot's license?

A. No. You must have your private pilot's license before entering a commercial flight program for which Veterans Administration assistance is payable. Education allowance is not payable to students training for a private license.

Q. I am attending college under the GI Bill and am having trouble with my algebra course. I understand the Veterans Administration pays a tutorial allowance, and my wife teaches algebra. Can she act as my tutor and receive the tutorial allowance?

A. No. The law specifically states tutorial allowance cannot be paid to a veteran's spouse, parent, child, sister or brother.

Q. Can any veteran be buried in a national cemetery?

A. Burial is available at all national cemeteries having grave space (except Arlington National Cemetery, which is restricted) to any deceased veteran of wartime or peacetime service (other than service for training) who was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

It is good news that there will be a Farm-City Tour next Thursday sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, and Extension Service.

We know there were a lot of problems last year such as the drought which caused poor gardening.

It seems this year has been a good one for gardeners, both small and large growers.

We have taken a lot of photos and have had people bring in exceptional sizes of produce.

The Farm City Tour is a real good experience and we hope all Chamber of Commerce members will take advantage of this year's tour.

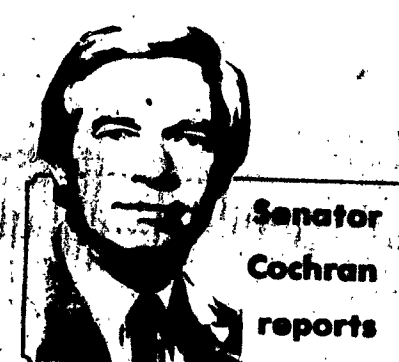

We understand the bus will leave the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center at 9 a.m. with a stop at the Waveland Shopping Center at 9:15 a.m.

L. J. Breaux, chamber agriculture committee chairman, has lined up an exciting day for these making the tour.

It will give us 'city folks' an opportunity to see how much farming really goes on in our county.

The revenue in farming in Hancock reaches into millions of dollars each year.

Hope to see you on the tour Thursday, July 23.

Senator Cochran reports

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) is sponsoring Senate Joint Resolution 83, a bill to authorize the establishment of a White House Conference on Education.

This Conference would seek the views of teachers, parents, school administrators, concerned citizens and government officials in an effort to rebuild a consensus on the goals of our nation's school systems and the best methods to achieve them.

"Although we in Mississippi should be grateful for our hard-working teachers and administrators, many schools throughout the country are falling short of expectations," Senator Cochran stated.

"But, schools are being asked to do much more than teach traditional subjects," he continued. "The system is under pressure to help solve social problems, counsel, feed and baby-sit the children, in addition to educating them."

The Senator pointed out that expenditures per pupil have risen sharply over the last 2 decades, but the additional funding has not helped to raise test scores, an imperfect but necessary measure of the quality of education.

Because current economic conditions dictate that there may be fewer dollars available in the future to meet the challenge of better education, Senator Cochran believes that we must conduct a thorough appraisal of what our schools can and should be doing.

He said "to build up declining enrollments and test scores and to enhance the creative and productive output of our youth, we must find a way to make our schools stimulating centers of learning."

Senator Cochran concluded that "by authorizing the President to establish a White House Conference on Education, attention will be focused on steps for the improvement of schools at the elementary, secondary, postsecondary, vocational and adult levels."

"Our young people especially must be better prepared by our schools. The Conference can help meet this challenge."

Cruel dog poisonings disillusion resident about neighborhood

July 14, 1981
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Editor,
In mid-June three dogs in our neighborhood on Jeff Davis in Waveland died of poisoning.

We were horrified and a bit uneasy, but we didn't think it could happen to us.

After all, on our seven acres, our dogs had lots of room, they were fenced in, we kept after them not to bark and put them up at night.

So why would anyone want to hurt them?
Well, Saturday night someone threw hamburger filled with strychnine over our fence to the dogs.

Our darling little Calie is dead and two of our dogs are still in critical condition, requiring round-the-clock intensive care by Dr. LeBourgeois, whose prompt and expert treatment was the only thing that saved their lives.

Our neighbors were not home. By the time we got to their dogs they were already dead.

Words cannot describe the horror of watching our dogs writhing on the ground in convulsions when moments before they were gay and happy as ever.

Or how painful it was to tell our teenage daughter when she got home the fate of her lovely young Golden Retriever and watch her buoyant, smiling face tumble into tears of agony and disbelief.

None of us, and especially our children will ever forget Saturday night.

As our eight year old son described it, "This is the most awful day in my whole life."

And what about the future? What's to keep whoever did it from doing it again if our dogs recover?

It is truly a nightmare, and we hope to alert other dog owners to the danger and encourage anyone who has experienced a similar incident, or suspect such a thing to report it to the police.

For us, one thing is certain—we are left with a very heavy feeling about our community.

Driver responsibility questioned in Waveland car-bicycle crash

Editor
The Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
I view with dismay our community's justice system which allows a woman who lost control of her auto and swerved off the road causing damage and injury to two youngsters on bicycles on the side of the road to have no responsibility whatsoever to them or their parents for the medical expenses incurred and the bicycles wrecked.

I gasp with shock that Mobile Medic charged each of the victim's parents a $85 fee for one one-way trip to the hospital.

I grieve for the youngsters, whose parents sacrificed to give them the pleasure of these now useless bikes—one parent raising four children alone.

I glory in the alertness of these boys who had the good sense to jump when they saw the car heading toward them, thereby receiving minor injuries instead of being maimed or killed.

One bike was crushed, the other had less damage.

And I blush with shame for the woman driver who claims to have no means, no job, no insurance. But she does have a car and the means to sit in a beauty shop the following morning for a permanent wave and show not one bit of concern for the boys that she could have killed.

Waveland resident feels media soft-peddling nuclear waste issue

To The Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:
A recent article on nuclear waste being proposed for dumping in our state seems to have received too little editorial attention.

I found the article quite by accident, and believe it deserves more attention than you gave it.

Either that or you feel the dispute over mineral rights on land above or below the high water mark is more important than the future of our children for generations to come.

Nuclear waste cannot now or ever be safely "dumped."

There is no such thing as a container that will stay sealed for 25,000 to 50,000 years until the nuclear waste is safe.

I urge all citizens to write to their Governor Winter at P.O. Box 133, Jackson, Miss. 39205 or our representatives in Washington and let them know how you feel.

University of Mississippi

Through the years I've had occasion to work with several public benefits and generally the news media has been very cooperative. But we seem to be having trouble getting notices run early or more than one or two times. What's The Deal?

Dear WTD: The deal is you may be trying to take advantage of a situation in which you are asking a businessman who must show a profit for too much free time or space.

As you note most news media are quite generous, but within certain bounds.

Early notices may be important to you, but media managers are primarily in the business of attracting an audience through news and entertainment. This makes it possible for them to sell advertising which pays most of the overall cost of production.

Your notices are judged in part on the basis of local news value and in part on the public service obligation they feel.

So if the notices are being used at all it seems you have little or no room for complaint. The use of such items is a matter of editorial discretion.

Most public service agencies have realized, as you apparently have come to realize, the importance of public announcements. And like most businessmen in the same situation they elect to budget for such contacts. Some use direct mail, but most opt for the local media.

Some directors of public service drives feel it may "turn off" or alienate their supporters if they spend funds on advertising.

But most managers and supporters as well as sophisticated enough to realize that expenditures, if wisely made, will be returned many fold.

So, if you are not getting some media support of your efforts, it seems a modest budget to fill in the gaps you feel exist, would be the most prudent and practical approach.

To continue to harass the local media and to complain about their treatment of your efforts won't accomplish anything for you. Most will tell you generally what news coverage you can expect, if you ask rather than demand.

Most media personnel appreciate the efforts of people like you who work for the public benefit. But they also have limits, as do you, on what they can do.

CUTTING TAXES NECESSARY FOR INVESTMENT, GROWTH

The battle over the Reagan-sponsored tax cuts—10 percent per year over the next three years—continues, while the results of a recent national poll reveal that most Americans favor the cuts.

Highlights of the poll show that 55 percent of all consumers think a substantial reduction in income tax rates would cause people to work harder or more because they could take home a larger portion of what they earn.

Most believe a 10 percent cut in everyone's federal income tax rates would have positive effects on the economy. Almost half thought the tax cut would increase investment, 30 percent thought it would increase employment, and only 24 percent thought it would lead to inflation. Nearly half thought a cut in both taxes and spending, would be the best alternative for the country, rather than a cut in taxes only, spending only, or a cut in neither.

The Mississippi Economic Council, the state's largest association of business and professional leadership, has endorsed the Reagan plan for a federal income tax cut at all income tax levels as a necessary incentive for economic investment and growth.

But the battle continues in Washington—despite the mandate given by the voters in last November's election, when Americans overwhelmingly endorsed the Reagan Administration's economic plan.

MEC, in its endorsement of the President's plan, has called on all sectors of the state's economic community to support the tax cut plan and to convey their convictions to the state's elected officials in Washington. Americans at all levels are laboring under a heavy burden of taxation and a tax cut would provide incentive for investment and growth in a stagnant economy. MEC believes that tax burdens must be reduced if the declining patterns of productivity and personal savings rates are to be reversed.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

DO YOU HAVE A WILL?

An interesting sidebar is shaping up as Congress focuses its attention on President Reagan's bi-partisan plan for economic recovery.

The comprehensive plan has sparked renewed interest in one form of tax relief virtually everyone can support: eliminating, or at least reducing, the estate tax.

And, why not? Since its creation in 1916, the estate tax has been one of the most punishing taxes ever levied by government. I think the same holds true for state inheritance taxes.

Further, as the debate in Congress progresses, more and more people will be asking a basic question: "Do you have a will?" For far too many people, the answer is no.

The amazing thing is that many Mississippians simply haven't given the matter a second thought, even though the absence of a will may make a person's life's earnings even more subject to the heavy hand of government. Now, this isn't an advertisement for lawyers because you can write your will out in longhand if you like.

It is a reminder that the existence of a will is especially important to farmers and small businessmen and women who have worked to accumulate an estate. Don't be misled—the estate can mount up to more than you think.

Without a will, your heirs could lose benefit of the estate, or go through a court proceeding to try to keep it.

The real loser in this game of estate taxation is not the rich, who can afford attorneys to create trusts and other legal means of keeping taxes to a minimum. The real losers are hard-working small businessmen, businesswomen and farmers, who sometimes aren't aware of legal opportunities available to them, too.

Since most of their estates are tied up in land or business inventories, often times the business or farm must be dismantled and sold to pay the tax. This selling of family-owned interests leaves little for future generations, and removes the incentive to increase the value of the estate.

Substance abuse session underway at Jackson State

Jackson State University will host a three-day workshop July 15-17 to strengthen the skills of persons working in the area of alcohol and drug abuse services.

The workshop will be held at the Jacob L. Reddix Campus Union and the Holiday Inn. Activities will focus on the theme, "Self Definition, Self Determination, Self Solution: The Economic Issues of Black Alcoholism."

Sponsored by the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism and the National Black Alcoholism Council, the workshop is designed to expand the knowledge and skills level of participants, and structure that knowledge and experience in a manner that can be effectively communicated to others, resulting in responsive program efforts on the local level.

Raymond M. Richmond Jr., associate director of the Alcohol-Drug Studies Center at Jackson State, said the workshop has several objectives that will be discussed. One primary objective, said Richmond, is to analyze past, present and future national trends which have affected and will continue to affect alcoholism services to black Americans.

Additional goals of the workshop will include developing strategies to work with state, local government and private organizations to ensure the inclusion of black health and social service need in the overall health care system; and find new means of financial support.

Approximately 50 persons employed in alcohol and drug related agencies throughout the United States will join more than 20 consultants in the workshop.

The selected attendees comprise a group of nationally respected experts on alcoholism as it pertains to problems related to the black community with emphasis on the individual, the family and the responsibility of blacks as a people to find solutions to black alcoholism and alcohol abuse.

Activities will begin Wednesday, July 15 at 9 a.m. in the Reddix Campus Union. The keynote address will be delivered at 9:30 a.m. by Dr. Abraham Kidane, professor of economics at California State University, who will speak on the theme for the workshop.

Twenty technical papers and presentations will be made to address skills development in alcoholism and alcohol abuse program components and resource mobilization in second key areas.

Several sessions dealing with alcoholism services will be held Thursday at the University before activities shift to the Holiday Inn. A dinner and remarks by Paul Bontemps, director of the National Black Alcoholism Council.

Activities Friday will begin at the University at 9 a.m. with a workshop project and close with a luncheon speech by Dr. Lois Chatham, acting associate director of the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

For additional information on the workshop contact Raymond R. Richmond at Jackson State University. Telephone 988-2350.

Arizona survivors sought

By ELLIS CUEVAS
The USS Arizona Reunion Association is trying to locate survivors, grandchildren, spouses, children or parents of anyone who may have served on the famous battleship.

Kenneth K. McKenna, a Waveland resident and chief quartermaster on the ill-fated battleship which was sunk by the Japanese Air Force at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941 would like anyone in this area to contact him at 467-9881.

McKenna, now retired from the Navy, says there is only one person from Mississippi, L.E. Elliott of Meridian and himself known as being survivors.

McKenna said, "We are now trying to locate all survivors and their immediate families of men who ever served on the famous battleship to become members of the reunion association."

The Arizona reunion association meets every December 7, at the University of Arizona, Tucson. The University of Arizona has a building dedicated to the battleship with moments from many of the survivors. At Pearl Harbor, The United States Navy has constructed a memorial over the sunken hull of the Arizona in memory of the 1,102 Americans who went down with the ship.

The next best thing to having a green thumb in the vegetable garden is having green-thumbed — and generous — friends who share their bounty with the legion of the brown-thumbed such as I.

So we're reveling in an abundance of fresh-from-the-bush — or vine-or-plant delectables these summer days, our joy increased by offerings from other generous friends skilled at bringing home their catches of shrimp or fish. Paradise!

So today I'm happily cooking up a ratatouille (ra-ta-tooy) that tasty melange which had its origin on the Riviera, a mixture of fresh vegetables and olive oil and seasonings, as delicious left-over and cold as it is hot from the skillet.

Like my ratatouille, cooked just enough so that the various vegetables retain their shapes and substance; you may prefer your more in the pureed state — just adjust the cooking time to your preference.

You may vary the ingredients as you wish — only remember to use about twice the amount of tomatoes as of the other vegetables, and adjust the garlic to your taste and tolerance. So Here's:

RATATOUILLE
2 small to medium eggplants

2 large onions
2 zucchini or cucumbers
2 bell (green) peppers
4 large tomatoes, very ripe
Olive oil
4 tablespoons parsley (chopped)

1 or more cloves of garlic
Film the bottom of a large, heavy skillet with enough olive oil to cover thinly. Oh, but before you do this, chop the eggplant rather coarsely (I like to leave the skin on), and also chop the onions and the green peppers.

Cut the zucchini or cucumber into thin slices (and if the cucumbers have been waxed, peel them; otherwise, don't). Chop the tomatoes rather coarsely, also.

Now, as the oil heats up, first cook the onions till they wilt a bit and barely start to brown. Add the eggplant, which will promptly start to drink up some of the oil.

Next, add the chopped peppers, then the zucchini or cucumber. Finally, add the chopped tomatoes, along with generous dashes of salt and also of pepper (fresh-ground, please) along with the chopped parsley and the garlic, chopped.

Cover the pot and let the whole business simmer for awhile, say a half hour or so, unless you prefer a puree or sorts, in which case, keep on cooking until you get the consistency you want. If you need to add water, do so with caution; if it's too watery, uncover the pot for a bit as it cooks.

Sprinkle additional chopped parsley and garlic just before you serve the ratatouille. I like to make a meal of this, along with hot, crusty French bread and a little wine; it's also a good accompaniment, hot, to roast or chicken or fish; and cold, to cold portions of the above.

And, it's delicious, along with melba toast, as a cold hors d'oeuvre.

BLUEBERRIES - If you've ever had the pleasure of berry picking, you may recall the path to the berry patch, the woody fragrance of the bushes, the "plunk" of the first picked berries into the pail. After washing, capping and chilling the berries, there is finally the berry-picker's reward — bowls of fresh plump berries.

Most southerners know about huckleberries but to many of us, the blueberry, a more sophisticated member of the same berry family, is a relative stranger. The huckleberry has 10 rather large bony seeds, while the blueberry has a large number of very small seeds — seeds so tiny they are not noticed when eating the fruit. The blueberry also is more blue and is generally larger and sweeter than the huckleberry. Of the two, only blueberries are cultivated.

Blueberries are one of the newer agricultural crops now grown in Mississippi. In various Mississippi several varieties have performed well according to J.M. Spiers, Plant Physiologist, Agricultural Research Service at Poplarville. These are Trifblue, Woodard, and Delite. Other recommended varieties are Southland, Briteblue, Bluegem, Climax and Bluebell.

Blueberries are on the market from early May into September with the peak of abundance in July. New Jersey, North Carolina and Michigan are the principal growing areas for commercial blueberry production.

Blueberries begin to ripen in June and are ready for picking after they have turned a uniform light blue. Most varieties do not ripen all at once, and the picking period is usually 4 to 6 weeks. Ripe berries can remain on the plant for a week or longer. When the berries become over-ripe, they deteriorate and drop off.

Select fresh berries that have bright fresh clean appearance, a solid full color, and those that have plump well-filled seed cells.

Avoid berries that have a dull lifeless color and are overripe. Those having signs mold are decayed and aren't good. Avoid unripe seed cells since they do not ripen after picking. If the caps are attached they are not ripe so can never be top quality.

Stained boxes are a sign of overripe or crushed fruit. Sandy or muddy berries are very difficult to clean.

The berries are fragile. Handle them carefully. Store them on a tray or platter in the refrigerator. Wash just before using (added moisture hastens breakdown or mold). Berries are best if used within a day or two, although they will keep up to a week at 32 degrees.

Blueberries are most famous for their delightful flavor. However, they have other advantages too. Blueberries can be classed as convenience food because there is no pitting, no peeling, no puttering and no waste! A pint serves four people generously — and they are good for the weight watcher, since a half-cup serving contains only 44 calories. Fresh blueberries are a good source of Vitamin A and C, as well as potassium, phosphorus and calcium.

So enjoy blueberries fresh for snacks, in salads, desserts, muffins, breads, pancakes or on cereal or ice cream.

AIDS IN BUYING
The best blueberries are plump, firm, clean and dry, with a deep full color.

Size is not so important in determining quality since sizes vary with different varieties.

Avoid wilted, shriveled berries. They will lack flavor, juice and tenderness.

FREEZING BLUEBERRIES

Handling: Harvest when firm-ripe. May be held for several days at cool temperatures. Remove undersized, immature berries and pieces of stems and leaves.

Preparation: Wash, drain and pack loosely in containers. Wild berries will be more tender if scalded 20 to 30 seconds in boiling water.

Ways to Pack: Cover with 40 percent sirup. (2 cups sugar to 4 cups water). For pie: pack dry without sugar, or mix 1 cup sugar with 5 cups fruit. (sirups may be made with hot or cold water, but must be cool when poured over the fruit).

CANNING

Raw Pack - Wash berries; drain. In glass jars - fill jars to ½ inch of top. For a full pack, shake berries down while filling jars. Cover with boiling sirup, leaving ½-inch space at top. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath, (212 degrees F.). Pint jars - 10 minutes. Quart jars - 15 minutes. Hot Pack - (For firm berries) - Wash berries and drain well. Add ½ cup sugar to each quart fruit. Cover pan and bring to a boil; shake pan to keep berries from sticking. In glass jars - Pack hot berries to ½ inch of top. Adjust jar lids. Process in boiling-water bath (212 degrees F.). Pint jars - 10 minutes. Quart jars - 15 minutes.

Below are two all-time favorite blueberry recipes. More are available from my office. Write, come by or call 467-5456 for copies.

FRESH BLUEBERRY COBBLER
2 cups Fresh Blueberries
¼ cup Water
Two-third cup Sugar
1 cup Whole Wheat Flour
½ cup firmly packed Brown Sugar

½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Baking Powder
Pinch of Ground Nutmeg
One-third cup Butter, softened
Whipped Cream

Combine first three ingredients in medium saucepan. Bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into an 8-inch square baking dish. Combine next five ingredients in a small bowl, mixing well. Cut in butter with pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal. Sprinkle over blueberry mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve warm with whipped cream. Yield: 6 servings.

BLUEBERRY SALAD
2 packages blackberry gelatin (4 serving size)
2 cups boiling water
2 cups blueberries
1 (15 oz.) can crushed pineapple
1 (8 oz.) package cream cheese

1 cup sour cream
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped pecans
Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Drain pineapple, reserving liquid. Add enough water to liquid to make 1 cup and add to gelatin. Add berries and add crushed pineapple to mixture. Pour into a two-quart flat pan chill until firm. Blend cream cheese, sour cream, sugar and vanilla. Spread over congealed gelatin. Sprinkle with pecans and refrigerate.

Mississippi press group publishes media law manual

Mississippi reporters and editors now have available a "first aid" manual of Mississippi law most directly affecting the editorial process.

"Media Law Handbook" was written by Dr. Jere R. Hoar, an attorney and a professor of journalism at The University of Mississippi, and Pat Flynn, an instructor in journalism now enrolled in the Ole Miss Law School. The handbook is published by the Mississippi Press Association.

Dr. Hoar said the handbook is designed to provide immediate answers to general questions on media law, not serve as a substitute for the advice of a competent media attorney.

"Any handbook on press law can only serve as a guide," he wrote in the preface. "It should be superseded by the advice of a competent attorney who has done recent research on the questions in point."

Dr. Hoar also pointed out that no book of law can be completely up-to-date.

"Law expands so fast that no one knows all of the law, even in a narrow field," he said. "There have been major decisions since the publication of this book. Reporters and editors can keep up with those decisions by reading professional journals and specialized publications such as 'News Media and the Law,' published by the Reporter's Committee for Freedom of the Press."

He said Media Law Handbook will be useful in public relations, a field in which pictures of "people" are sometimes used in contexts other than those in which the pictures were taken. Such practices can lead to accusations of false light invasion of privacy, he commented. Attorneys who represent media organizations can benefit from the handbook because it gathers various aspects of Constitutional and case law concerning the press.

"In general, this handbook will provide easy access to Mississippi statutes and precedent," Dr. Hoar said. The handbook covers the right to gather and print the news, libel, invasion of privacy, laws connected with campaigns and political parties, obscenity, advertising, search warrants and school newspaper law.

The appendix contains the proposed open records law, a photographer's model release form, and guidelines and directives on free press-fair trial from the Federal District Court and the Justice Department.

Distribution is being handled by the Mississippi Press Association.

Chamber sets Farm Tour

The annual Farm City Tour, sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the Hancock County Farm Bureau and the Hancock County Extension Service, will be held Thursday, July 23, according to L.J. Breaux, chamber agriculture committee chairman.

The tour will begin at 9 a.m. when a MCTA bus will load passengers at the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center at the corner of US-90 and Blue Meadow Road, and then travel to Our Shopping Center, Waveland to pick up passengers at approximately 9:15 a.m. This year's trip will include some experimental plots of cotton, a rice and catfish farm, soybean fields, beef herds, a dairy farm, watermelon farms, swine operations and other places of interest.

The tour is open to all members of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

Reservations must be made in advance by calling the chamber office at 467-9048.

The deadline for reservations is Monday, July 20.

Commission asks law changes to eliminate U.S. acid rain

After more than two years of painstaking deliberation, the National Commission on Air Quality has recommended a change in the Clean Air Act that could effectively end acid rain.

In its report to Congress this year, this panel of experts from industry, academia, government, and the environmental community proposed "significant" reductions in sulfur dioxide emissions by 1990.

While environmental groups have objected to other Commission recommendations for changes in the Clean Air Act, which is up for Congressional reauthorization this year, most have hailed this proposed attack on sulfur dioxide emissions.

How do these emissions become "acid rain?" Though scientists still debate the intricacies of chemical changes they do agree that sulphur and nitrogen oxides are pumped into the atmosphere through tail industrial smokestacks, where they undergo complex chemical reactions with other particles and sunlight.

A significant portion of these sulfates and nitrates filter down to the earth as dry particles, which, deposited in lakes, on leaves and branches, can lead to acidification.

When moisture accumulates in the atmosphere it sends these same particles to earth as sulfuric and nitric acid in rain or snow.

This acid doesn't color or cloud the precipitation; it doesn't assault the nose with a caustic odor.

It simply kills - fish, aquatic life, entire lakes. At least 212 once-teeming Adirondack lakes are now sterile.

Wildlife experts say that without aggressive action, more than 50,000 North American lakes will die in just two decades.

In addition, forest and crop growth may be significantly stunted by acid rain, and thousands of people may die from breathing sulfates.

Up to now, environmental protection laws have not effectively met the challenge of vinegary acid rain.

Many of these tall smokestacks spew sulfur directly into Canada at the rate of about four million tons per year.

Canadians estimate this causes $2 to $4 million in damages yearly. Unfortunately, U.S. smokestacks are not the only sources of acid rain - Canada pumps 1 to 1.4 million tons of sulfur emissions into the U.S. each year.

In other words, the U.S. sends Canada two-to-four times the amount of sulfur emissions it receives. To compound the problem, bedrock formations in Canada, as in some parts of the northeastern U.S., make the soil particularly sensitive to acidification.

One-half to three-quarters of a million square miles of rolling green Canadian hills and forests have been affected by acid rain. Canadians are understandably incensed. When President Reagan arrived in the Canadian capital of Ottawa last month, he was greeted by hundreds of protesters, many carrying placards with the message, "Acid Rain Go Home."

Our northern neighbors want the U.S. to regulate sulfur dioxide emissions and regulate them fast. If Congress approves the Commission's acid rain recommendations, the U.S. will be well on its way to clearing the air between the two countries.

Congress, however, is feeling pressure from industrial lobbyists, who charge that the Clean Air Act hampers economic growth and stifles energy development. Unfortunately one way industry is trying to cut back on costs is to switch to coal combustion, the largest single source of sulfur emissions in the nation.

And industry fears that if Congress approves the new anti-emission recommendation, it will have to cover the costs of cleaning up emissions from even its tallest smokestacks.

Such clean-up costs are not so prohibitive as industry would have us think, however. According to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, most coal can be easily and inexpensively washed, and the sulfur can be mechanically extracted.

Expensive chemical coal cleaning and scrubbing processes, when properly designed, can produce sulfur compounds for dry wall, cement, fertilizer additives, and commercial sulphuric acid.

So, actually, the commission's proposal - if enacted - may cause little economic hardship for industry, while promising cleaner lakes, and clearer diplomatic skies.

The recommendation has miles of deliberation and arbitration behind it, and will travel many more miles before it becomes law.

But if Congress acts now, and passes this urgent proposal, fish and other aquatic life in North America will receive a needed breath of fresh water, and an extension of life.

BOAT FIRE—Hancock Fire Fighter James Varnell lugs fire extinguisher Monday evening after extinguishing blaze in flat bottom boat off Beach Boulevard in Waveland. Waveland Fire Department received a call that a boat was on fire. Varnell, Timmy Fayard and David Garcia all waded to the boat which reportedly caught fire when a lady operator tried to restart engine. The fire fighters said the motor and gas can were on fire when they arrived and the lady was out of the boat in shallow water with no reported injuries. At the time of the call, Varnell, Fayard and Garcia were watching two persons swimming very close to the hole further down the beach. Ten fire fighters responded to the boat call. Energy Answers from Mississippi Energy Extension Center

Q. Do I save money by washing dishes by hand?

A. Yes, if you consider the following things:

Don't leave water running while rinsing. Try washing all the dishes, then rinsing them with a sprayer while they are in the drying rack. You can also use two sinks, or tubs, one for rinsing and one for washing.

Hand wash dishes only when you have a sink full. Don't fill your sink with hot water for only a plate and glass. If all your dishes are washed by hand, the water heater setting can be reduced to 110-120 degrees F. Automatic dishwashers require hotter water.

Q. What is the biggest user of energy in the house?

A. Heating and cooling account for about 60 percent of the money spent annually on utilities. In the northern part of the state, 40 percent is spent heating and 20 percent is spent on cooling. In the southern part of the state, a greater percentage is spent on cooling.

Your water heater is also a big user of energy. A combination of heating, cooling and heating water takes about 80 percent of the energy spent on utilities.

Q. Do timers on water heaters help cut bills?

A. Yes, timers do save you money. A timer will turn off your heater at night and during work hours or whenever hot water is not needed. Here are other suggestions to make household hot water use more energy efficient:

Lower temperature on heater to lowest degree acceptable - 110-120 degrees without dishwasher. Insulate electric hot water heater.

Never leave hot water running unnecessarily. Fix leaky hot water faucets. Launder clothes in cold or warm water. Consider using faucet aerators (combines air with the water) or flow restrictors to cut hot water use.

Judge advocates stiffer first offense penalties

By BRENT MACEY

Michael D. Haas, Hancock County Youth Court referee, reports he will be giving harsher penalties to youths convicted of first time burglary offenses.

"If circumstances warrant, youths found guilty of burglaries of dwellings will not necessarily be given a second chance as they may expect, but may well be committed to the training school upon a first offense," he stated.

Haas said eight of 12 youths appearing before him at a recent adjudication hearing faced burglary charges.

"That is an increase in the usual number of burglary cases," Haas stated.

He added, "That increase triggered my thinking. They must be thinking that they are entitled to a second or third chance and that the first one is for free."

He questioned what exactly youths on the street are thinking.

"I don't want to pre-judge, but isn't that what they are doing?" he asked.

In a news letter released by Haas, the judge stated, "The young people in this community should be appraised of the fact that burglaries, especially home burglaries, will not be tolerated by the court. Also they run the risk of being killed by a homeowner who will not know that the person entering their home is a child under the law," he stated.

Robert (Poochie) Tartavouille, chief investigator for the Waveland Police Department and acting chief while Donald Dorn recovers from a recent eye operation, stated there have been 41 reported burglaries in Waveland between January and June of this year.

He compared those statistics to 24 reported burglaries during the same time last year.

The investigator noted those figures compared only the first six months of the year. He feels the burglary rate will 'balance out' with last year's total figures by the end of this year.

He added, "Juveniles comprise most of the burglary cases we have."

Tartavouille said a drop in the numbers of burglaries is expected when school opens again this fall.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said the number of burglaries in the county have decreased this past year.

His department lists 157 burglaries reported during the first six months of last year in comparison to 94 burglaries during the same time this year.

Alvin Ladner, sheriff's investigator, noted many of the statistics reported by the Waveland Police Department and the county sheriff's office 'overlap' and sometimes include the same cases.

Peterson related the decrease in the number of county burglaries to the number of people currently in jail for burglaries.

"We have gotten a lot (of burglars) off the street in the past year and a half," Peterson said.

He noted many of those burglars currently incarcerated in the county jail and state penitentiary are often the same ones who have been arrested by his department for burglaries in the past.

Ladner stated he felt the number of burglaries would increase in the near future when some of the prisoners complete sentences and are back on the street.

Peterson noted Haas' feelings on a need for more severe penalties for first offenders are being reflected in adult courts as well.

"Circuit and Justice Court judges have also begun a new trend in stiffer penalties for first time offenders," the sheriff observed.

"I think the judges in the past were saying give everybody a first chance. But now I think they are getting tougher."

Acting Bay St. Louis Police Chief Matt Karl did not have burglary statistics immediately available.

However, he estimated a decrease of between 37 and 45 percent for the first six months of 1980 and 1981.

He attributed that decrease to a redistricting of the city, which allowed patrolmen to spend more time in one area. An increase in the numbers of foot patrolmen and the beginning of a new 'neighborhood watch' program which the city is currently beginning to implement.

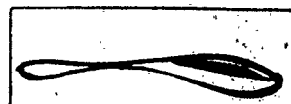

Wiggins operation cut back

International Paper Company's lumber and plywood manufacturing operations at Wiggins, Miss. have been curtailed to a four-day work week effective the week of July 13, the company reports.

The curtailment is needed to bring inventory more into balance, and will last until market conditions for lumber and plywood improve, according to Vince Hannity, International spokesman.

Market conditions will be monitored weekly, although the outlook for a rapid turnaround is not optimistic with continuing high interest rates and sluggish home construction activity, he noted.

The spoon as we know it today, with its spatulate handle, dates from only the 18th century.

decision, if necessary.

Joining Bambini as plaintiffs are several Hancock County property owners and Phillips Petroleum Co. of Houston which has leased minerals in the northern portion of the partnership's property on Jourdan River.

Saga Petroleum, also of Houston, joined the state as a co-defendant since the company leases some 600 acres from the state within the southern boundaries of Bambini property claim.

The state basically contends it owns property where the tide ebbs and flows whereas Bambini claims it owns property through land grant documentation and a 'headlands' consideration in the public trust doctrine.

Mike Smith, president of Advanced Developments, Inc.—a Bay St. Louis civil engineering firm contracted by Bambini, said some mean high water mark survey points (indicating a property boundary) in the state description prepared by George Cole, president of Florida Engineering Services of Tallahassee, "don't compare with the precision they ought to..."

Stewart interrupted Smith and suggested postponing rebuttals by Bambini because "we're going to be two days just on this."

The chancellor suggested Bambini attorneys might "dispute" to the state's inaccuracies, but Ernest Taylor of Jackson, a Bambini attorney, said that "certain aspects" necessitated review and a blanket stipulation could not be offered.

Taylor added that Saga Petroleum Co. engineers "are not in a position to comment" regarding the survey and further cross examination would be necessary.

Stewart stated, "I will command both of you to voluntarily exchange information."

The very nature of this survey is difficult," the chancellor said regarding location of the mean high water mark.

Stewart noted some "seven to eight" days of testimony could have been eliminated if both sides would have accepted certain information regarding the surveys.

He also criticized all parties for not providing accurate property descriptions.

Earlier in the day, Phillips presented a video tape of the water areas and property involved in the litigation. Last week Saga presented its film of roughly the same area which included scenes of Cole losing his hat in Bayou LaCade and bikini clad girls on a dock.

Joel Blass of Pass Christian, a

Phillips' attorney, had previously objected to Saga's tape and Stewart reserved a ruling regarding its admission as evidence.

But Monday the chancellor accepted both tapes as evidence.

Joseph Crump of Houston, a member of the family partnership based at Holly Bluff, reported the state and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers requested permission to dredge a 2.5-acre point of land in Jourdan River just south of the I-10 bridge which was thought might be a channel navigation hazard.

The state's argument was granted to the state for $2 with rights reserved for a damage claim if the project caused 'slumping or erosion' of nearby land.

However, Crump stated the state did not remove the land and through contract time limitations the property rights reverted back to Bambini.

In proceedings Wednesday, Cole completed some two days of testimony.

Thursday and Friday, additional technical testimony was offered by Garner Russell, a state surveyor and John Hampton of Ocean Springs, a computer programmer employed by Cole; and fishing information regarding bayous in the Bambini property claim was heard from Alden Mauffray, Sylvan Ladner, A.C. Mitchell, Huey Johnson and Donald Caldwell.

hamburger meat and thrown over the Ling's fence to the dogs.

Dr. Robert Akers, Bay St. Louis veterinarian, said it has been several years since he has had dogs poisoned.

Dr. Akers stated, "Another serious concern persons should have, is the fact that poisoned food could also be picked up by a child and eaten as kids will pick up just about anything and put in their mouths."

Lolly Backlund, a spokesman for the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, also stated the practice of poisoning animals puts the lives of children in jeopardy.

Dr. LeBourgeois said possibly many more animals are killed by poison and are not reported.

The Waveland vet. did recommend that persons try to train their pets to eat out of a dish only, adding, "It is a bad habit to throw food to an animal on the ground."

The Cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland both have dog ordinances and dog wardens.

Waveland's Mayor John Longo said Wednesday, "I cannot understand why someone would want to poison an animal. I cannot believe this would happen."

"The City of Waveland encourages all animal owners to obey the animal ordinances which requires control at all times. This means not letting them run the streets loose. Waveland's dog warden has the authority to pick up animals running the streets and on public property," Longo added.

Longo continued, "If a person has a complaint about neighbors' animals, they should not take matters into their own hands. They should call the police department and not poison the animals, it is illegal."

Mayor Bennett stated, "Bay St. Louis has an ordinance which prohibits the animals from running loose. They must be kept on a leash or in a fenced yard. I wish people would heed the city ordinances in reference to all animals."

The procedure by both Bay St. Louis and Waveland as explained by the mayors, is that if a person makes a complaint about a specific animal, the respective dog warden would collect the animal if it is running the streets. The only way the dog warden could go onto someone's premises would be if a complaint is signed by the person complaining.

Bennett said the Bay's normal procedure would be for the dog warden to notify the animal's owner about the complaint and if the action is repeated and a complaint signed, the owner will be taken to city court.

Mrs. Backlund, allowed, "The Humane Society's primary concern is for the protection of animals. We do not want to see any animal hurt or mistreated."

"If a person has a complaint against a neighbor's animal, that can be easily corrected and they need a third party to speak to the owner of the animals about their transgressions, please call us at 467-9948 or 467-8765," Backlund added.

"We do not name names in talking to the pet owners; we just say we receive calls," Mrs. Backlund reported.

The Bay St. Louis dog warden is Dennis Keeler and he can be reached through the police department at 467-9231; Bennett said.

Waveland's dog warden is Joe Schultz and he can be reached through the police department at 467-9669.

Hancock horses take four at Oak Downs

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)
PEARL RIVER, La.—Four Hancock County horses won races Sunday at Oak Downs with two of them being decided by only a few inches.
In the five-furlong fourth race, Subaduba, owned and trained by Roger Ladner of The Kiln, broke out on top early and led the entire oval in posting an easy win over four other horses.
Riding Subaduba to the victory with a clocking of 1:04.63 was Marty Comfort of The Kiln, who is one of the top jockeys at Oak Downs.
Miss Rattle Star, owned by Terry Peterson of Necaise Crossing, won the 350-yard fifth race by a few inches over Little Knot.
And it was by a nose that Fast Home Run, owned and trained by Donald Cuevas of White Cypress, won the 350-yard fifth race against three other horses.
Fast Home Run narrowly defeated Smoke Stack.
The fourth Hancock County winner of the afternoon was Two Times Chickadoo, owned and trained by Frank Comfort of the Kiln, and ridden by Marty Comfort. Two Times Chickadoo easily put away Model's Cupid, a Hancock County horse owned by Kenny Ray Ladner, in the 250-yard ninth race with a clocking of :18.64.

It is not uncommon for a horse to run two races on a single afternoon at Oak Downs. But it is rare when a horse runs in three.
That's what Omega Diana did Sunday. Owned by V.L. Thomas of Bogalusa and trained by John Paul Amacker of Poplarville, Miss., Omega Diana lost the first two races she competed in, but the third time was the charm.
Omega Diana, one of the winningest horses at Oak Downs, finally visited the winner's circle Sunday with a victory in the 100-yard 11th race against Quite A Man.
Earlier in the afternoon, Omega Diana had run last in a four-horse, 350-yard race won by Fast Home over Smoke Stack.
Then Omega Diana and Smoke Stack hooked up in what proved to be one of the closest races of the day as Smoke Stack took a nose victory in a 100-yard test.

The closest race of the day was in the 400-yard seventh when Rudy's Edition and Dusty Go Boy hit the wire in a rare dead heat. The two were clocked in :23.29.
Sunday's Results

HITTING THE WIRE in a rare dead heat Sunday at Oak Downs are Rudy's Edition (No. 6) with JoAnn Boatwright aboard and Dusty Go Boy (No. 4) with Marty Comfort in the irons. The two horses were timed in :23.29 for the 400-yard race. Four other races were decided by only a matter of inches on the 12-race card.

Yamaha recalls Viscount bicycles

The Yamaha International Corporation of Buena Park, California, is recalling the cast aluminum forks on approximately 38,000 "Viscount" brand 10-speed bicycles because the forks have the potential for fatigue fracture.
The firm is conducting the recall voluntarily in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.
Fracture of the fork may occur unexpectedly and cause loss of control or separation of the front wheel from the bicycle with a possibility of personal injury.

Approximately 30 reports of failure have been received by Yamaha since the bikes were distributed in 1974. So far, 12 of the cases have involved injuries such as multiple skin abrasions, dental injuries and, in one instance, a reported case of paralysis.
The recall covers only the front forks on the Viscount 10-speed bicycles models GPM, PRC and PRT. Owners of these bicycles are urged not to use them until the fork has been replaced.

The bicycles were distributed nationwide from September, 1974, through October, 1977, by bicycle dealers for retail prices ranging from $150 to $200. Yamaha has not imported or sold Viscount bicycles in the United States since October, 1977.
Consumers who own one of these bicycles and who have not already received recall information from the firm should contact Yamaha toll-free at 800-554-3155, to obtain information regarding free replacement of the bicycle fork in California call collect at 714-322-9155.
Owners needing to verify model names should contact CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-538-4326, in Maryland 800-492-6363, in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, 800-438-5333.

Bay Tee Ball players display baseball skills

The Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds organized Tee Ball games this summer for Bay youths between the ages of six and nine.

The four teams established included: Blue Jays, Jolly Green Giants, Red Roosters and Yellow Birds.

Games are scheduled each Tuesday and Thursday evening at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. at McDonald Field in Bay St. Louis.

July 16, 21, and 23 are the remaining dates scheduled for play this year.

Billy Roads, coordinator for the Parks and Playgrounds, encourages people to come and watch area youths participate in the program.

Roads noted, "The won-loss concept is not emphasized in Tee Ball. Only the idea of fair play, the learning of new skills, and an increase in the knowledge of baseball is emphasized."

"For many kids this is their first experience at organized athletics. This is why we try, with the co-operation of parents and friends, to make this an enjoyable experience and not one marred by undue pressures or unhappy experiences," he said.

Rules of the game are different from regular base ball since the ball is not pitched.

Instead the ball is placed on a 'tee' located directly on top of home plate.

The batter may not swing at the ball until the umpire calls 'play ball.'

No bunting is allowed, and if a batter does bunt then he would be called back to the plate and charged with a strike.

The ball must travel past a 15 foot line drawn on the field before being considered playable.

At that time all the rules of regular baseball come into effect with the exception of the infield fly rule and the ability of a player to advance more than one base on an overthrown ball.

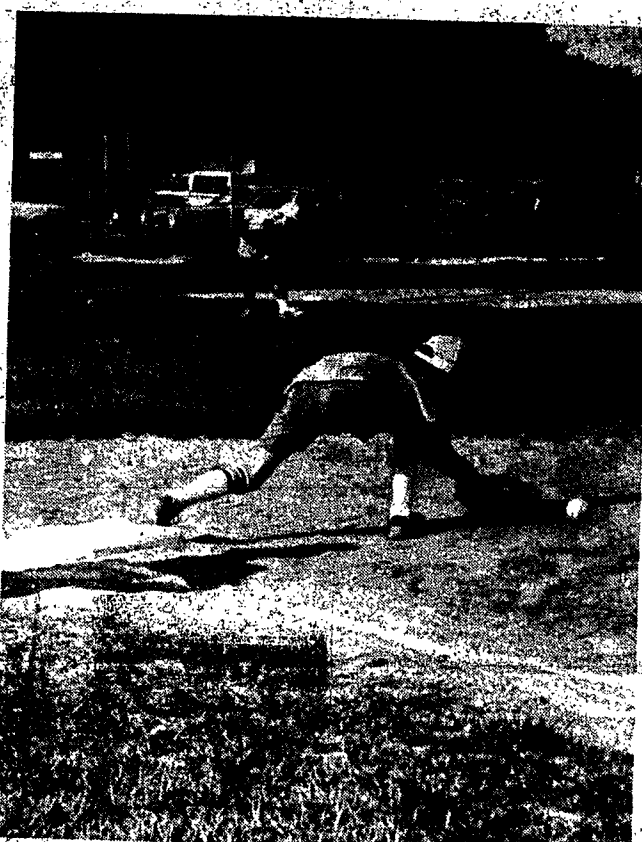

In event of an overthrown ball, runners may advance only one base regardless of whether the ball remains in the playing field area.

The concept of three outs and resulting inning changes have also been varied.

"The inning is over only after each batter has been given the opportunity to bat once."

"If a batter is called 'out' he merely sits on the bench. Nothing is charged against the team," Roads said.

A regulation game lasts one hour and consists of three innings.

TEERING OFF—Todd Barber of the Yellow Birds eyes the ball in preparation for the final swing.

STREAKING HOME—Christy Heitzmann starts home to score another run for the Jolly Green Giants.

OUT AT FIRST—Michael Lee, first baseman for the Jolly Green Giants, snags a throw to first to get Stacy Fruerstein of the Yellow Birds out during a recent Tee Ball game at McDonald Field.

SAFE AT THE PLATE—John Rutherford of the Jolly Green Giants manges to slide safely home before catcher Charles Merrigan of the Yellow Birds can tag him out.

A CLOSE CALL—Joe Prevou of the Jolly Green Giants sneaks past Yellow Bird catcher Charles Merrigan and volunteer umpire David Richardson declares Prevou 'safe.'

JUST LIKE THE PROS—Chris Karl, first baseman for the Yellow Birds, grabs a thrown from second to get Jolly Green Giants player Frank Penton out at first base.

Waveland parish schedules run

St. Clare's Church will conduct a three mile Fun Run August 3, in conjunction with the annual parish fair.

The run will begin and end at St. Clare's Church on South Beach Boulevard in Waveland.

A route will be posted. Entry fee is $5 per runner.

There will be 1st, 2nd and 3rd place trophies given in three categories. There will be trophies for both male and female runners.

Printed T-shirts will be given to the first 100 runners to register. The shirts will be presented on the day of the race.

Mail entrance fee and name and address to: St. Clare's Fun Run, c/o 105 Whispering Pines Drive, Waveland, Mississippi 39576.

Call 467-7109 for information.

Farve, Rhodes complete USM basketball camp

Top junior and senior high school female athletes from five states recently concluded a week of strengthening basketball strategy and preparedness at the largest annual Lady Golden Eagle Basketball Camp ever held here by the University of Southern Mississippi.

USM head coach Kay James with Coach Laura Porciello welcomed over 100 campers to the second year of the fast-paced professional training seminar.

Offensive and defensive strategy, individual competitive talents on the court, lectures and training films are now behind the girls who participated in the lectures and scrimmage games held on official USM Eagle territory.

Participants completing the event from the local area included Rebecca Farve and Terrie Rhodes, both of Bay St. Louis.

YMCA slates canoe races

The Mississippi Gulf Coast YMCA, with the assistance of the Mississippi Canoe Racing Association, is sponsoring a four mile canoe race July 28 starting at 1 p.m. from the Fort Bayou Apartment's Marina in Ocean Springs.

Registration will be held at the Marina before the race. The entry fees are $10 per canoe or $7.50 per person with a limit of two people in each canoe.

Life jackets must be provided for each person and a single paddle must be used. The canoes may be made out of any material.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third places in the following classes: Open class - any canoe longer than 17 feet; Men's Standard Class - any canoe 17 feet and under; Mixed Class - any canoe 17 feet and under; Junior Class (10 to 17-years-old) - any canoe 17 feet and under.

Michelle Fausnaugh, Ocean Springs; bottom, Desiree Davion, Pass Christian; Elnor Leigh Corley, Moss Point; Jan Meltzer, Picayune; and Lesa Walker, Biloxi. Sponsored by the Division of Tourism, Department of Economic Development, the pageant is scheduled for July 22-25 at the Coast Coliseum.

Miss Hospitality Pageant set for Coast Coliseum

Next week a new Miss Hospitality will be selected from a field of 70 young women representing towns, cities and counties from all over Mississippi.

Governor William Winter and reigning Miss Hospitality Tena Rayborn of Lamar County will crown the winner in coronation ceremonies July 25 at the Coast Coliseum.

Sponsored by the Division of Tourism, Mississippi Department of Economic Development, the pageant is in its 32nd year.

As Miss Hospitality, the winner will travel extensively promoting Mississippi at travel and trade shows, industrial development functions and other special events throughout Mississippi and the U.S.

"Being Miss Hospitality requires intelligence, speaking ability and stamina," said George Williams, Division of Tourism director.

"A day's schedule might include appearances in two or three cities - speeches, media interviews, etc. - from early morning till late evening, then doing it all over again the next day. She works," he concluded.

Contestants will arrive in Biloxi July 22, for the four-day pageant. Coronation ceremonies begin at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 25, in the Coast Coliseum and are open to the public at no charge.

MISSISSIPPI GOODWILL AMBASSADOR—Thirteen-year-old Randy Carver of Bay St. Louis represented Mississippi in the National Tom Sawyer Fence Painting Contest during the Fourth of July weekend in Hannibal, Mo. Carver placed second in costume judging; third in quality of painting and third in speed for an overall sixth place in the event sponsored by the Hannibal Jaycees and the Hannibal Tourism Commission. Carver was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Noleen Breland and Clark Breland, both of Bay St. Louis. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Blackwell among players in Southern Arena work

Audiences will have five chances to catch "Hay Fever" beginning July 21.

The play by Noel Coward will be presented by the Southern Arena Theatre at the University of Southern Mississippi's Southern Playhouse on July 21, 24, 29, August 1 and 6.

The play is part of the SAT's three week summer season of comedy at 8 p.m. July 21-Aug. 8. The other plays in the repertory are Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor" and Moliere's "Tartuffe."

"Hay Fever," set in 1925 England, features the Bliss family, an ultra-Bohemian group. Judith (Wynn Saggus Mills), the mother, is a retired actress, who makes a crisis out of every scene, while David (Ron Mills), the father is a novelist.

Sorel (Amy Smith) and Simon (Ken Leggio) are the ill-mannered daughter and son, respectively.

One weekend each is expecting a guest: Judith, an athletic youth Sandy Tyrell (Rusty Blackwell); David, a flapper, Jackie Coryton (Kennedy Miazza), a type he is studying for a novel; Sorel's guest is a diplomat Richard Greatham (Brian Brumfield) and Simon's intense young guest is Myra Arundel (T. J. Inman).

Before the weekend is over the guests and the family members have paired off in the most unexpected ways, with Judith going about dramatizing everything for all its worth.

The family is used to the happenings but the guests are quite bewildered.

Season tickets are $7.50 general admission, $4.50 students and senior citizens. Single show ticket prices are $3.50 general admission and $2.25 for students.

For tickets call the Southern Playhouse Monday-Friday noon-4:30 p.m. box office at 266-7365 beginning Monday, July 13. The box office will open at 7 p.m. on performance nights.

Pressman participating in aerospace program

Jeff Pressman of Bay St. Louis is participating in the Cooperative Education Program at Mississippi State University.

A major in aerospace engineering, Pressman is working toward a BS degree and at the same time is working as a co-op student on alternating semesters in New Orleans, La. with Martin Marietta Aerospace.

The cooperative education program is a five-year educational program which allows a student in various fields of accountancy, agriculture and home economics, arts and sciences, business and industry, education, engineering, and forestry to affiliate with a business, industrial, or governmental firm while enrolled at Mississippi State University.

By combining practical experience with theoretical training, this program provides the student with a superior education. Once all of the degree requirements are complete, Pressman may begin full-time work with the cooperating firm or join another firm which demands this particular training.

Nursing League ok's W program

The Associate Degree Program in Nursing at Mississippi University for Women has received continuing accreditation from the National League for Nursing. The notice was received by President James W. Strobel in a letter of commendation from Edith Rubino, secretary to the NLN Board of Review for Associate Degree Programs. The Board also commended the W's nursing faculty for their "excellent report," and requested permission to use the document for other schools to review. The National League for Nursing accrediting team is scheduled to visit the MUW campus again until the Spring of 1989. Mrs. Annette Barrar serves as director of the two year nursing program at the University.

SOMETIMES THE OLD WAYS ARE BETTER

Sometimes the old ways are better—and beautiful, too. Now that energy costs have skyrocketed, a Progress ceiling fan can increase your comfort and save you money on energy. • Reduces or eliminates use of air conditioner in summer. • Cuts heating costs in winter. Do it with a Progress quality ceiling fan. Reversible heavy-duty motor. Solid state continuously variable speed control for whisper quiet operation. Sealed bearings never need oiling. Peace Corps office located at State

A Peace Corps office has been established at Mississippi State University to help Mississippians become volunteers. The office is located in the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education and is open from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Peace Corps volunteers travel, gain experience, develop personal and professional skills, and obtain a first-hand knowledge and appreciation of other cultures, explained Terry Crabb, the Peace Corps representative for the office.

Crabb said, "Peace Corps volunteers receive a living allowance, $125 for each month of service, free medical and dental care, transportation to and from the host country, and 48 days of vacation during the 27-month period they serve."

According to Crabb the Peace Corps has positions available in the areas of agriculture, home economics, forestry, construction, engineering, health education, skilled trades, and many other fields.

"Potential volunteers should have two years of college or five years of practical work experience. Applicants should be at least 18 years of age, however there is no upper age limit," Crabb said.

Crabb explained, "The goals of the Peace Corps are to supply the manpower needs of developing countries, promote better understanding of American people on the part of the people served, and promote an understanding of others on the part of Americans."

In developing Latin American, African, and Asian countries 12 million children die of starvation each year before they reach their fifth birthday. Over 300 million people are malnourished. In some of the poorest countries there is only one doctor for every 40,000 people. This is equivalent to having only about 5 doctors in a city the size of Jackson, Mississippi.

Those interested in more information about the Peace Corps may write to Crabb at the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education, Drawer AV, Mississippi State, Mississippi 39762. The telephone number is 601-325-3326.

Professors attack city's taxing system

New Orleans has too many elected and politically appointed jobs, causing local government to be inefficient, counterproductive and at the root of the city's financial problems, according to a report by a University of New Orleans economist and a Tulane University law professor.

Dr. Gordon A. Saussy, director of UNO's division of business and economic research, and William E. Rittenberg, Tulane adjunct professor of law, recommended a reduction in the number of political jobs in Orleans Parish, specifically in the number of tax assessors from seven to one. They further recommended that the assessor's position, as well as those of clerks of court, be appointive through Civil Service, rather than elective.

"All Louisiana parishes elect officials whose total jobs are to administer various functions of parish government — tax assessors and clerks of courts," they said in the report, published in the current issue of "Louisiana Business Survey," UNO's business quarterly. "The assessors estimate property values to be taxed, while the clerks are responsible for the filing and safekeeping of legal records. These are administrative jobs, yet Louisiana makes them elective rather than appointive."

Saussy and Rittenberg pointed out that while a tax assessor's responsibility is to assess the value at which properties should be taxed in order to generate revenues for local government, he generally gets elected by promising to lower assessments and to lobby for a larger homestead exemption. "In essence, the tax collector gets elected by promising not to do his job responsibly or equitably," they said, adding that the counterproductivity of the current system of elected assessors is evidenced by the city's insufficient funds for public services; the lack of confidence that assessments are made equitably; and the fact that the homestead exemption puts the tax burden on businesses and renters. "In 1979, 86 percent of New Orleans homeowners paid no property tax," they said. "Since the increase in the homestead exemption approved last fall, property tax-free homeowners in 1961 are expected to rise to 95 percent of the total. And New Orleans is the only municipality in the state subject to the homestead exemption; all others may collect taxes from all homeowners to support the services they deliver," they said.

Saussy and Rittenberg pointed out that many of the renting poor aren't aware that, on average, one month's rent goes to taxes, and businesses, which are assessed at 50 percent more than residential property owners on improvements, have no choice but to pass along their costs to the public or to locate other than in New Orleans or in Louisiana.

The two educators noted that New Orleans is politically more fragmented than any other major city. The average number of elected officials in the six categories of sheriff, assessor, clerk, registrar, coroner and constable, in the 25 largest U.S. cities in 1979 was 3.8. New Orleans, with 18, was the only double-digit city, had three times as many elected officials as the next highest city, and was surpassed by no city in any category. Not only these administrators but also the majority of their employees were non-Civil Service, and, therefore, politically appointed, they said.

"One major consequence of the many fragmented political power bases is the proliferation of political appointees to other local boards, commissions or jobs in return for appointees' political support," they said. "Unfortunately, under such a system the role of the appointee is not necessarily to provide the most efficient service."

A RESOLUTION DECLARING INTENT OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TO ISSUE SHORT TERM NOTES OR CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS IN THE AMOUNT OF $250,000.00 FOR THE HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, at a meeting held on June 2, 1961, considered a resolution adopted by the Board of Trustees, Hancock County School District on May 8, 1961, and filed with the Board of Supervisors on June 2, 1961, requesting the Board of Supervisors to borrow the sum of Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000.00) to be used for the construction of ten (10) classrooms at Hancock North Central High School, four (4) at Gulfview Elementary School, two (2) classrooms at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School, adjoining restrooms and purchasing equipment for same, and that the Board of Supervisors issue short term Notes or certificates of indebtedness to evidence said indebtedness, and that said notes or certificates of indebtedness bear interest not to exceed nine percent (9 percent) per annum, payable annually or semi-annually, as provided by Sections 19-4-10 of the Mississippi Code of 1972. Annotated, and all amendments thereto, and also including Section 19-4-10 of the Mississippi Code of 1972. Annotated, as now amended.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the said notes or certificates of indebtedness shall mature in a period of not to exceed five years from the date of the issuance thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the governing authorities of Hancock County shall levy annually a tax sufficient to pay the principal and interest on said notes or certificates of indebtedness, which said levy shall be collected in the same manner as other taxes, and that the said annual tax levy shall not exceed two mills on the dollar for the payment of said notes or certificates of indebtedness as provided for in Section 19-4-10 of the Mississippi Code of 1972. Annotated.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Hancock Board of Trustees does hereby rescind all previous resolutions concerning the levy of two mills for the short term obligations or certificates of indebtedness.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the monies, which in excess of $250,000.00, held in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County, for and on behalf of the Hancock County School System, be used for the purpose of paying the interest on the $250,000.00 obligation asked for in this resolution.

The motion for the adoption of the foregoing resolution was seconded by Woodrow Lader, and upon roll call vote being taken, the vote was as follows:

VOTING AYE: George Lader, Monvel Cuevas, Woodrow Lader, Johnny Banks.

VOTING NAY: None.

ABSENT: Louie Lader.

BILLY D. SILLS, Executive Secretary of Hancock County School Board, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true copy of a resolution passed by the Hancock County School Board at a meeting held on May 8, 1961.

This 8th day of May, 1961. BILLY D. SILLS, adopting of the following resolution, to-wit:

RESOLUTION OF THE HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT, REQUESTING THE HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS TO BORROW MONEY ON SHORT TERM NOTES OR CERTIFICATES OF INDEBTEDNESS TO BE USED FOR THE PURPOSE OF CONSTRUCTING TEN (10) CLASSROOMS AT HANCOCK NORTH CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL, FOUR (4) AT GULFVIEW ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, TWO (2) AT CHARLES B. MURPHY ELEMENTARY SCHOOL, ADJOINING RESTROOMS AND PURCHASING EQUIPMENT. SAID LOAN TO BE MADE UNDER AUTHORIZATION OF CODE SECTIONS 37-49-101 THROUGH 37-49-115, OF THE MISSISSIPPI CODE OF 1972 ANNOTATED AND ALL AMENDMENTS THERETO.

WHEREAS, the Hancock County Board of Trustees of the opinion and so finds and adjudges that in order to construct said classrooms, restrooms and necessary equipment for same, said construction and purchase must be paid for out of the funds to be provided by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi; and

WHEREAS, the Board finds that there are no funds available which can be used for the purpose of constructing the classrooms, and equipment above mentioned, and WHEREAS it is to the best interest of the Hancock County School District that the aforementioned construction and purchase be done in order to promote the best interest and welfare of the students of this School District; and

WHEREAS, the Hancock County Board of Trustees has on numerous occasions adopted resolutions concerning borrowing of money on short term notes or certificates of indebtedness authorized under Section 37-49-101 through 37-49-115 of the Mississippi Code of 1972 Annotated; and

WHEREAS it now appears that all of these previous resolutions are no longer necessary or warranted in the eyes of the Hancock County Board of Trustees, and

WHEREAS, the Hancock County Board of Trustees feel that in order to eliminate any misunderstanding or confusion on the present resolution that it is their intention to void all previous resolutions concerning the levy of two mills for short term notes or certificates of indebtedness, and

WHEREAS there is a certain sum of money presently being held in the office of the Chancery Clerk of Hancock County for and on behalf of the Hancock County School System in a fund which was established for a previous short term obligation, and it is the wish of the Hancock County Board of Trustees that said sum of money, which is in excess of $250,000.00, be used for the purpose of paying interest on the $250,000.00 obligation which is asked for in this resolution. Now therefore:

BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Trustees of the Hancock County School District request the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi, to borrow the sum of $25

Blanchard attends workshop

The University of Southern Mississippi School of Home Economics recently played host to summer workshops designed to improve professional skills.

These workshops were the 21st Annual Preschool Teachers Workshop, the 34th School Foodservice Managers Workshop and Personnel Management for School Lunch Managers. Participants included Mrs. Geraldine Spell Blanchard of Waveland who attended the Foodservice Managers Workshop.

Mrs. Blanchard is affiliated with the Hancock County Development Center.

Women In Science workshop funded

The National Science Foundation has awarded the University of Southern Mississippi $19,960 to partially fund a "Women in Science Careers Workshop" USM has scheduled for November.

The grant, one of only 20 given in the nation this year, will allow USM to advise up to 150 women interested in entering or advancing in a science oriented profession within the next two years.

Participants to the free workshop will be advised on how to prepare for careers in the sciences and presented current information on job opportunities. College juniors and seniors, graduate students, or women who hold an undergraduate degree, but who are unemployed or underemployed, are eligible to attend.

The workshop will be directed by Dr. Ruth Ann Cade, associate professor of computer science and statistics, Dr. Robert Burr Cade, assistant professor of radio, television and film.

Anyone interested in attending this free workshop should apply in advance. For

Help Children Control Wheezing

Asthma can be scary. Particularly for a child. The American Lung Association reports there are specific things that can be done when symptoms of asthma occur.

The Christmas Seal people suggest that the child relax, let his or her body go limp as possible. Then practice deep—not shallow—breathing.

When a child starts to wheeze, drinking liquids is recommended. Warm liquids are best but even water is satisfactory. These methods may help a child control symptoms, and the wheezing may stop.

A physician's advice ahead of time is always important. Medicines to prevent wheezing can help nearly all children with asthma.

Carey offering forensic workshop

William Carey College's Department of Biology has designed a workshop on the forensic sciences especially for students in health care curricula.

The workshop will meet July 24, 25, 31 and August 1 at William Carey College on the Coast, 1856 Beach Drive, Gulfport.

Among the topics are "Rape Protocol and Investigation in the Emergency Room," "Child Abuse Recognition," "Drugs and the Drug Abuser," and "Forensic Odontology."

The class is scheduled for 6-10 p.m. on Friday and 8 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday for two successive weekends. Credit students will earn three semester hours upon successful completion of the workshop.

Cost is $140 for credit and $75 for non-credit.

For information, call the college's Hattiesburg campus at 582-5051, ext. 209 or 231, or William Carey College on the Coast at 896-4455.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

"Financial Planning for the '80s" will be an intensive two-day seminar to solve personal financial problems July 30-31 at the University Center in Jackson, 3825 Ridgewood Road.

The seminar is designed for attorneys, physicians, CPAs, dentists, trust officers, corporate officers, business owners and individuals interested in answers to their financial planning problems. Both sessions will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The event will be conducted by professionals, drawn from across the nation, in investments, taxes, and the legal profession. This is the first course of its kind presented in the Jackson area by the University of Southern Mississippi Department of Business and Industrial Programs, a Division of Continuing Education and Public Service.

For registration information contact: USM Business Programs, USM Box 5055, Hattiesburg, MS 39401, or call (601) 266-4295.

SUPERVISION

Registration for the Motor Fleet Supervisor Training Course continues through August 4 at the USM-Gulf Park Campus, Department of Business and Industrial Programs.

The course is designed to teach those involved with transportation truck, buses, school buses, private carriers and government motor fleets, as well as insurance representatives.

Classes for the two-day course begin August 18. For more information contact the Gulf Park Department at 864-2155, or write: Brenda Strahan, Coordinator, Gulf Park B & I Programs, USM-GulfPark, Long Beach, MS 39560.

MATHEMATICS

Registration for a 1981 mathematics education conference is now going on through the USM Department of Conferences and Workshops in Hattiesburg.

The conference will be July 17-18 and is presented as a community service for teachers, administrators and parents of elementary school children.

For information call 266-4295.

Flag Etiquette...

How Much Do You Know?

If you were asked to handle decorations for a patriotic event or holiday, would you know how to properly display the United States flag?

To test your knowledge of flag etiquette according to Public Law 829, try answering the following true-false questions. They are based on information in Scott, Foresman and Company's new Civics for Americans, a practical citizenship textbook.

1. The flag must be displayed only in good weather and only from sunrise to sunset.
2. The union, or blue field, must always be at the top. If the flag is hung on a wall, the union must be on the observer's left.
3. If several flags are displayed together, the United States flag must be on the same level as state and local flags, always on the observer's right.
4. When flown from the same halyard with other flags, the United States flag is hoisted first and lowered last.
5. Displayed with a flag of another nation, the visiting nation's flag is placed higher or as a sign of courtesy.
6. If flown at half-staff, the flag should be hoisted to the peak momentarily, then lowered to mid-point.
7. A flag used to cover a casket should be lowered into the grave after taps are played.
8. To honor a visiting dignitary, the flag should be dipped in passing or displayed with the union down.
9. If worn on uniforms, a flag patch should be placed on the right arm.

ANSWERS:

1. False. For a special patriotic effect, the flag may be displayed around-the-clock if properly lighted. When weather is bad, an all-weather flag should be used.
2. True.
3. False. The United States flag must be in the center and at the highest point.
4. True.
5. False. They are flown from separate staffs of the same height.
6. True.
7. False. The flag should never be lowered into a grave or allowed to touch the ground.
8. False. It should never be dipped to honor anyone or anything. The union down signals dire distress.
9. False. A flag patch should be worn on the left lapel, near the heart.

Commission director disclosure of ad

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
W. Wilson Webre, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission director, Thursday night refused to make public details of a 1981-1982 budget adopted by the commission that evening.

Webre claimed his refusal to release a copy of his proposals to spend some $256,000 in taxpayer dollars next year is supported by a State Attorney General's opinion.

The commissioners gave rubber stamp approval of the budget for consideration by the County Board of Supervisors.

Webre is expected to present the proposed budget to the supervisors at their 9 a.m. meeting Monday.

The commission director said at the Thursday night meeting that Walter Gex, the supervisor's attorney, contacted the attorney general's office which advised him public disclosure of the commission budget was not necessary until the proposal receives final approval by the supervisors.

The board has to establish ground rules that this (proposed budget) is not an official document by the supervisors. "The budget remanded back (modifications)," Webre explain county ad valorem state ad valorem the budget.

The commission read through budgeted $30,000 for apparently Webre. The proposal al clerical salaries maintenance.

Commissioner 1 the commissioner pay was increased month.

Some two months formed the commission benefits would be than his present.

After the meeting asked to view t Webre flatly repud.

Keesler surgery in infant thumb

It's been more than a week now since one-year-old Nicole Hinds accidentally fell out of her playpen in her parent's home in Keesler's Pine Haven housing area.

The tiny baby is back home now, and recovering nicely thanks to the quick action of a team of Keesler Medical Center surgeons who re-attached Nicole's very small thumb to her very small right hand.

At 4 p.m. July 9, Nicole fell out of her playpen. As she fell, she caught her right thumb in a hinge in the playpen. The hinge was razor sharp and it cut her thumb off at the joint at the base of her hand.

"I was petrified," said Margaret Hinds. Nicole's was still caught and we couldn't know what to do, were there did."

Husband, Sgt. D assigned to the medical center. Diane Lewis, family friends, and packed Nicole's thumb in ice.

Nicole was rushed to room. Within an hour was working on and thumb.

The surgery to (Dr.) David H.
